Prairie Ink Submission Requirements

The editors of Prairie Ink welcome multiple submissions throughout the reading period, but no previously published submissions, and we reserve the right to evenly distribute the opportunities for creative voices in both the student and community populations. We also reserve the right to waive the submission guidelines in certain instances with certain populations of our student body and community population.

Guidelines

Please submit work electronically using the rules of manuscript format (outlined for you below). Make sure accompanying the submission(s) is a cover letter that includes the author's name, address, phone number, email address, title of submission(s), and a brief biography of the author.

All correspondence and submissions shall meet the following guidelines:

- No more than three submissions per author/artist
- No more than 5,000 words
- Submitted electronically

The first page of the manuscript must also contain:

- Author's name
- Address
- Phone number
- Email address

Selection Period

Submissions are always accepted.

The cutoff date for the upcoming issue is the Sunday after Thanksgiving.

Selection and editing start the beginning of February.

Publication is released the fourth week of April.
