Computer and Internet Use in the Library

Barton Library adheres to the College's established policy and procedures for computer use. The primary purpose of the computers in the Library is to provide academic support, which includes activities such as research and the completion of assignments.

Library patrons may use the computers for personal purposes; however, this is permitted only when there are no pressing academic needs that require access to the computers. Additionally, all users must comply with the College's protocols while using the computers.
